A cookie is a small text file which is placed onto your computer or electronic device when you access our website. Similar technologies include web beacons, action tags, local and shared objects (flash cookies) and single-pixel gifs. Such technologies can be used to track users' actions and activities, and to store information about them. We use these cookies and/or similar technologies on this website for the following purposes:

To obtain information about preferences
Online Movements
Use of the internet

Information Collected

We may obtain information about your computer or any other electronic device which you use to access our website, such as IP address, your browser and/or other internet log information. We will treat this information as your personal information.

Consent for Cookies:

In most cases we will need your consent in order to use cookies on this website. The exception is where the cookies is essential in order for us to provide you with a service you have requested, or essential to the inherent functionality of the website (e.g to enable you to store items in a shopping basket and/or to use our check-out process).

Where we wish to use the cookies that require your consent you will be asked whether you consent to the use of the cookies in the following manner:

On the first occasion a pop up will ask the user to consent by clicking a checkbox. This preference will then be stored for the future visits to the site from the same device.

Thereafter you will be provided with an opportunity to opt out of the use of cookies which can be done in the following manner:

A pop up will be shown to all users who have consented to cookies being used, which will ask them if they wish to opt of such technologies.
